

Frequently Asked Questions

Farmer Todd's Produce Box (Community Supported Agriculture)

How much produce will be in my produce box (CSA)?

The produce in your CSA Box each week depends on the Box that you choose. Typically, our small produce box (family of 2) can feed 2 adults. We recommend our large produce (family of 4) for families with more children or children (that like vegetables!)

Can I choose what produce goes into my box?

No. The produce that comes in your share each week depends on what we have in season at that particular time. Some things like cucumbers, squash, and zucchini will remain the same but others like strawberries, okra, green beans, corn, and blackberries will switch as we progress in the season.

I don't like a certain produce; can I exchange it?

CSA Boxes are set each week and exchanges are not allowed. SORRY!

Can I send a friend/family member to pick up my box?

Of course! If you decide you cannot pick up on particular date, your friends/family members are more than welcome to pick up your share. Just remember that they will request the share under YOUR last name.

I forgot to pick up my box on my designated day; can I get a new one?

CSA Boxes are held until 6 pm. After this time, they will be given to a local charity or someone in need and new boxes cannot be made.

Will the same thing be in my box each week?

Not always! You will than likely see tomatoes, zucchini, and squash each week. Things like strawberries, blueberries, blackberries, green beans, okra, corn, and much more will switch throughout the season.
